

Welcome Legal Scholars!

On Friday, March 26th and Friday, April 2nd, the law school is hosting Legal Scholar Days. Admitted students and their guests will be visiting the law school and attending various programs and activities throughout the day.

Part of the day includes a tour of the law library — and we want to welcome everyone who will be participating!

Law libraries have a special role in the world of legal education. Some interesting statistics about the Taggart Law Library are noted on the back of this newsletter. In addition, we conduct legal research workshops in the fall semester, house an excellent collection of legal materials, and provide comfortable space for student research and study.

The law library also maintains an easy-to-use online catalog, called POLAR, which connects to OhioLINK, a statewide consortium of college and university libraries. Through OhioLINK students can borrow books directly from other Ohio colleges and universities — literally with just the push of a button.

Please let us know if you have any questions about the law library or our services. Welcome to Ohio Northern University and to the Taggart Law Library.

Request for Quiet....

A number of people have commented recently on the increased noise level on the south side of the library. It certainly is nice to see people happy, laughing, and in good spirits! However, we need to remind everyone that both sides of the library should be available for quiet study. Let's continue to work together to keep the south side as quiet as possible. Thanks!
